Zeroculture.org is a new XOOPS based, community driven website dedicated to the discussion of technology, cinema, popular culture, and current events. Visitors are encouraged to participate by submitting news and by taking part in lively discussions in our forum section. We are a relatively new community with a small group of dedicated members. We are looking to grow our user base in an effort to promote more varied and enjoyable conversation. Please have a look at our site, participate in the discussion, and help us make zeroculture.org an enjoyable way to kill some time.
