For over five years hobgoblin.net has been serving the needs of writers of speculative fiction by providing an annotated link database and inspirational quotations. Now, we've taken it even further and have introduced a new and improved web site running on Xoops. We offer the support of a well rounded community along with all new features and benefits for both members and guests.

If you write in the field of Speculative Fiction and are looking for a growing new community of writers just like yourself, come join us!

Featuring: Writing challenges, an active forum, a huge database of research and writing related links that are hand picked for spec-fic writers, writing blogs for members, articles and essays, publishing news, energetic and supportive members and more!
