I have released version 0.18a of my Articles module. This version contains a few minor improvements and bug fixes. The main change in this version is the addition of the pagination ( ) feature.

Also released is AM Events, an events module that I started some time ago. This is the first public beta release. AM Events shows events as a list, with the next event at the top, events expire automatically, but are not deleted so can be relisted easily. There are 2 blocks, one is a calendar and the other is for upcoming events.

The search, notification and comments features are not present yet, but they will be added in the next few releases.
