I started using XOOPS on this site about 6 months ago and am amazed at what it's become with the help of such a powerful CMS and a great developer community.

The Hotdog Blog! is a community site for dachshunds and dachshund lovers. It allows members to create blogs, photo galleries, upload and download audio and video files, participate in forums, and much more. Members are always raving about all the powerful things they can do on the site.

Thanks to the XOOPS team!
