Just to update you all, we are now getting ready for the next release, which will include numerous bug fixes, database optimization, admin interface enhancements, module install/deletion, etc.

Members have been busy in daily affairs lately, and rarely had time to work on the codes, so the update may be of a little disappointment compared to the length of time we have been silent since the previous rc. But I just wanted to let you know that we are still here, and are going to keep on the enhancement and development of this project.

There is no ETA. All we can say is that it will be released soon. We really appreciate all your support and patience. 🙏
