Today (1th june 2005) I released a new site and of course it is based on xoops.
My site is to provide car clubs the latest car news, car entertainment news, regio news, free promotion, and be a large agenda database on which members can see where the large car styling & Tuning meetings are.

I also want to provide my user with a database of car communities in our region.
Although 70% is completed we still released our site.
And we will continue our work and hope to finish it at the end of the week.
