I am proud to release a new module testing site.

On the site users have admin access to the most common modules, so that new users of xoops can get a look at how the modules work, and get a quick sneak preview to see if the module is what they need before having to install it on there own site.

More modules will be added over time, but there is already a good selection to try out.

How does it work?

The site is reset every hour, so that people can add data, play around and try different things, at the end of the hour the site is reset back to how it was when first installed, wiping all changes made to the database.

Take a look now:
