First of all sorry for my bad english.

I've been using postnuke for quite awhile now. If you going to ask me which permission system I prefer, I surely love xoops permission system. Easy to understand and set but 1 thing that my community site need that xoops don't provide, gallery module. With gallery module is out I definately will convert my postnuke site to xoops.

Another things you take layout seriously too. That what make xoops different from other CMS system available as GNU licence out there.
