The Idea of the pangaea experiment is to run a Community Website so that it is entirely run by the community. Every Registered User has moderator access to this site. A whole new approach to Social Networking. That said this is more an experiment to see if we can get a well functioning community site with all members in a seat of power rather than a way to annoy all the other site users. Lets see which way this goes.

If you are interested in this idea then register and join in if not please let me know what you think of the site. It is still waiting on some content but a lot of this will build up as the site gets going.
