<http://www.stonehengefestival.nl>

Just an average Xoops-site.

A site I build for the small dutch heavy metal festival 'Stonehenge'. The reason I switched to Xoops was the handy use of multiple languages with the xLanguage module. As more and more foreign visitors visited the site it became important to present at least a bi-languag site.

Performance is an issue though, but thats not the fault of Xoops but of my hostingprovider <http://www.servage.net>. They're cheap, and give you A LOT but performance isn't a strong point of them. At the bottom of my site you can see the loadtime; in black so it doesn't draw to much attention.

I tried other cms-es but Xoops is the one I feel most comfortable with.
