Hello all,

I just recently opened a website powered by Xoops 2.0.17.1. It is called Slice of My Mind (http://www.sliceofmymind.com).

Sliceofmymind.com (SOMM) is a new age site for mature people 17+ to post their opinions on the issues and topics that affects them. Featuring blogs, news, forums, chat and more.

We are currently looking for new content providers as well as experienced XOOPS developers that know how to develop or modify modules that will fit within our scheme of delivering thought-provoking yet humorous content.

When I was in the concept stages of the SOMM site and as a long time user of the XOOPS CMS system, I knew XOOPS would be the engine that would run the site. The problem is I need developers familiar with this system in order to develop some of the ideas I have into featured rich modules that I will gladly share with the Xoops community.
