

Not Bad! - YAXS

NEWS_PDF_AUTHOR: finalfiler

NEWS_PDF_DATE: 2002/1/21 0:37:19

Two Australian based sites are now moving to XOOB. One is <http://www.finalfiler.com>, a specialist database management company, and the GravEmail, the journal of the Cemeteries & Crematoria Association of New South Wales, Australia - <http://www.ccansw.org.au/gravemail> finalfiler.com will complete the entire move withing the next few days.

However, the <http://www.ccansw.org.au/gravemail> conversion is proving frustrating. The membership, a very conservative bunch, argues it is comfortable with the current "Moveable Type" publishing system ( <http://www.ccansw.org.au/mt/gravemail> . The webmaster's persuasive attempts to argue that XOOPS will provide a far more comprehensive and easier to manage system seem to be failing. A big stick approach my be required :)

Nevertheless, finalfiler.com will definitely be XOOPS driven.

Two Australian based sites are now moving to XOOB. One is <http://www.finalfiler.com>, a specialist database management company, and the GravEmail, the journal of the Cemeteries & Crematoria Association of New South Wales, Australia - <http://www.ccansw.org.au/gravemail> finalfiler.com will complete the entire move within the next few days.

However, the <http://www.ccansw.org.au/gravemail> conversion is proving frustrating. The membership, a very conservative bunch, argues it is comfortable with the current "Moveable Type" publishing system ( <http://www.ccansw.org.au/mt/gravemail> ). The webmaster's persuasive attempts to argue that XOOPS will provide a far more comprehensive and easier to manage system seem to be failing. A big stick approach may be required :)

Nevertheless, finalfiler.com will definitely be XOOPS driven.